AudioLabel Cover Maker helps you design - .Beto O'Rourke's campaign for president appears to be drawing from the same two lanes he ran in Congress as it heads into the second-quarter fund-raising period, with a small, energetic group of wealthy donors and a cadre of veterans of his Senate campaign from Texas. More than 100 people attended an O'Rourke fund-raiser at the home of the family of Robert E. (Bobby) Kraft, the billionaire owner of the New England Patriots football team. Tickets were sold for $500 apiece. An event at the Carrollton home of B. Wayne Hughes, a Dallas financier and Democratic donor, was attended by about 40 people, while a third event at the home of David Horne, a Houston business executive and longtime supporter of the O'Rourkes, drew more than 50 people. All three events were well-attended, but far fewer than the 85 to 100 people who attended many of the O'Rourke fund-raising events before his Senate race and his unsuccessful 2018 bid for president, according to estimates from his campaign and data from Influence Explorer, an online research firm. In the first half of 2019, Mr. O'Rourke attended just two events at which people paid $2,500 for a ticket — events co-hosted by a Hollywood fundraiser named George Argyros, who has ties to Mr. O'Rourke's past campaigns. In the second quarter of 2019, he attended five such events, all with Mr. Argyros, whose girlfriend, Kate Etue, is Mr. O'Rourke's national finance director. Mr. O'Rourke visited a few dozen events during the first half of 2019 where the price
