Our aim was to create an average Roguelike dungeon crawler, but with the twist of a good RPG dungeon crawler. The most important part about this game is the story, which we made to feel so immersive you'll find yourself torn between exploring random dungeons and playing it again to see what happens next. Target Audience: Our main focus was to create a roguelike RPG that would appeal to people who like roguelikes but were not yet ready to quit their day jobs to keep afloat in a post-apocalyptic world. We targeted a wide audience so more people can enjoy. Art Style: It was a big challenge for us to come up with a style and one that reflects this post apocalyptic backdrop without being overwhelming. We created a Dieselpunk art style with a mutated backdrop. Level Design: The environments are designed to make our characters feel like they are lost in a dungeon, but are also simple enough to explore. Playable Map Collision: This game has been designed around realistic play on mobile devices, this means that as you make your way deeper into our dungeons, you will not be able to reach the edge of the map. Sounds & Music: To us, RPG's should always have a good soundtrack, something that reflects your character and the game world. This is not something that we do often. It's great to look up to stuff like Chrono Trigger and Monster Hunter that can go well beyond the dungeons. We get inspiration from those games. Recovery: There was a lot of polish done and I think it shows. We really put a lot of effort into recovery. While exploring dungeons you will not have access to a rest area that will heal your character. EUROPE is generally considered to be an "ice free" continent. That may have been true even before global warming drove global sea levels up by 140 million years, according to a study led by NASA scientists. But the continent might be headed for "sudden permafrost-free" summers, a report released this week says. As the Nordic countries warmed up during the Little Ice Age, the whole of the North Atlantic was covered with ice sheets. The work of Rind and colleagues extends this model to show that these frozen regions may be under more pressure than previously thought. To do this, the team used a computer model to work out how much pressure the Barents and Kara seas

Sometimes I see some nice video editor softwares which give the license to use if it is not for commercial use. We can use something like this to make our own video. Anyways, this video editor is available for both for Android & Windows, at least I am not sure whether it is available for android or not. Some of the features are listed below: HEX 5.0.7 PRO Video Editor is a professional video editing software for Android. With that, you can edit your videos and photos, mix multiple video and music files in one scene, add captions, apply filters, effects, titles, transition effects, graphics, etc. It's available for both Android and iOS. To make a movie from a photo Make a video from a photo Divide a video into clips Create great videos with filters and effects Create "Photo Story" with music and photos Create "Video Story" with music and video Divide a video into many videos If you have only one video, you have to join it into a new video. By using this software, you can divide your video into 5 minutes clips. Cut the part from video Apply the effect to any frame Add any sound with this video editor, clip, or cut feature This video editor also allows you to add the text on the screen, add the logo, and add the music along with the video. The application has a good interface, and you can add the audio and video even from your PC. The developers have also added some new features in this version, like the possibility to add subtitles. The software is totally free to download and use, and can be used to make a video to share on Facebook or YouTube or even to create a professional-quality presentation. No, you can't transfer all your photos, videos, and music to one device. While you can export all of them to your computer or laptop (or even cloud), you can't transfer all of them to one device, so if you

Exploring Big Santa Cruz. Rail from San Francisco to Santa Cruz was just the start of the grand route the Empress State Highway has become. Stunning views, abundant vegetation, and rolling hills make this southeast-facing strip of road the loveliest 70 miles of the California coast. Some of the Big Santa Cruz hotels will take you on a free sunset cruise on Friday and Saturday nights in summer. A short hiking trail and a mosaic of salmon-colored-concrete rock wall are scenic highlights. | 1801 Pacific Ave. Cotter. A history buff's paradise, this museum displays displays on 19th- and 20th-century architecture, from Native American dwellings to a first-rate collection of Ohlone Indian artifacts. Children enjoy wandering the first-floor labyrinth that links exhibits with natural history and art. Plan on two to three hours for the museum; the serpentine tree-lined grounds, an even more inspiring 40-minute self-guided tour, take two hours to explore. | 10 Canyon Rd.,

"We were told to wait to see if it goes out of business." She contacted the university to find out whether she could apply for a course that she felt would be more applicable to her job requirements. "I wish I would have listened to their first suggestion but what is the point of calling and then just hanging up?" she said. "I think it is just a case of a person with a bad attitude." Ms Moreland said there was no one at the university who responded to her phone calls but she took to Facebook to accuse Professor Kibota. She said she was "so disappointed that I went back to work just to put up with that" and posted a photo of a handwritten letter from her employer. "I was given the impression it was a run down department, so I sent out the photo to the world," she said. "No one was able to help." While Ms Moreland said she does not intend to walk out of her job because of this issue, she does not understand the attitude of the customer service department at the university. "I would advise people to be careful what they say on social media and be careful what you write and what you send out to the world," she said. The group response on Ms Moreland's Facebook post said: "I don't know about the rest of you but this is a ridiculous way
